Hanna Krall – creating empathy for absence

“Only literature can make the world realize its abnormality. Not history. Just literature.”

Hanna Krall is a Polish writer and journalist. She was born in Warsaw to a Jewish family, a daughter of Salomon Krall and Felicia Jadwiga nee Reichold. She spent her childhood in Lublin. During the Second World War, many members of her family were killed by the Nazi regime, including her father. She survived deportations to death camps only thanks to the hiding provided by a Polish rescuers. While transported to ghetto, she was rescued by an unbelievable coincidence. Both the Holocaust and the fate of the Polish Jews have become the main subject of her work over time.

After the war, she was placed in an orphanage for Jewish children. Having graduated in journalism from Warsaw University, she started working at the Polish local paper Życie Warszawy (Warsaw Life) in 1955. In 1966 she left the paper and began to write for the well-known magazine Polityka (“Politics”). It was during that time that she published her first book named Na wschód od Arbat (“Heading East from Arbat”), in which she recounted the years she spent working as a correspondent in Moscow, depicting everyday Moscow life in the 1960s.

Krall’s career really took off after Zdążyć przed Panem Bogiem (“To Outwit God”), a book-interview with Marek Edelman, one of the few surviving leaders of the Jewish Fighting Organization in the Warsaw Ghetto. The work focuses on the last days before the liquidation of the ghetto. It constitutes a shocking account due to, on the one hand, its conscious deheroization of the Jewish revolt, and on the other, its homage to those who perished in the Uprising, their stamina and sacrifice.

The interview with Edelman was the beginning of the new stage in Krall’s work, to which she has remained faithful ever since. In the books that followed, such as Taniec na cudzym weselu (“A Dance at Somebody Else’s Wedding”), or Dowody na istnienie (“Proofs of Existance”), she combines stories about the Holocaust itself with description of Jewish life in Poland before and after the destruction, recreating details of that existence. In this manner the stories of destruction become even more real and devastating. A large number of her informants are “children of the Holocaust”, now in their late fifties or sixties, who often do not know how they survived, who their parents and grandparents were or what happened to them. Krall, who wishes to save these people from oblivion, frequently refers to them as the coauthors of her stories.

As she mentioned in a number of interviews and on public occasions, she fears that a purely historical and statistical approach to the Holocaust focusing on a mass murders, deportations, descriptions of death camps, gas chambers and other atrocities, may rather evoke only terror and sense of horror in modern readers than real compassion, therefore possibly even having the reverse effect of causing them to avoid the topic in the future. Real empathy, according to Krall, can be better evoked by recalling individual fates and concentrating on feelings and emotions. In her stories, she writes not only about survivors, but also about their rescuers, informers and more or less indifferent witnesses, as well as perpetrators.

A number of Krall’s stories show how the long silence over Jews in Poland led to the acculturation of the survivors, who do not even know the basic principles of Jewish tradition and custom, such as the kindling of Sabbath candles, not to mention keeping a kosher home. This is even more dramatic among those who discovered their origin as adults and are only now trying to explore their roots by browsing through archival materials, searching for long-lost relatives and developing an interest in Judaism.

Krall’s work has been received favorably in Poland. Among many other awards, such as the underground Solidarity prize and the prize of the Polish PEN Club, in 1998 she received the Award of the Culture Foundation given to outstanding artists and scholars for major achievements. Translated into many languages, her works appear to have gained most recognition in Germany and Sweden.

1. HIA Poland Fellowship 2017 Program

HIA Poland general objectives of the fellowship:

- broadening and deepening knowledge about past and present human rights challenges and ways of counteracting them by the Polish state and society with the special thematic focus on the discourse on diversity and (counteracting) xenophobia, discrimination and hate speech,

- getting to know innovative methods and strategies of working against human rights violations & human rights culture promotion as well as interesting/influential actors of the Polish human rights system (mainly non-governmental organizations and their projects),

- developing and enhancing skills and know-how necessary to conceive and conduct in a professional manner social and advocacy campaigns on social media, which counteract xenophobia, discrimination and hate speech (with the help of community organizing methods) and contribute to development of innovations in this area,

- inspiring to take up individual actions in the field of human and minority rights, which should help fellows further develop their leadership potential,

- introducing fellows to the global Humanity in Action network and inviting them to active participation in its activities and Senior Fellows Networks.

Structure

The fellowship consists of ‘input’ and ‘output’ sessions, which complement each other and are intertwined. In the ‘input’ sessions, the emphasize will be more on developing knowledge and exchanging ideas in debates, whereas the ‘output’ activities will be more focused on enhancing skills essential in human rights activism by completing a given task. In other words, throughout the fellowship, thanks to applying active ‘learning by doing’ methods and with the help of experienced trainers, the participants will have a chance to effectively combine theory with practice.
Input Phase:

The leading question of the program is how the Polish state and society have been dealing with human rights challenges from the historical and contemporary perspective. Poland will be treated as a main case study and/or point of reference throughout the whole fellowship. Content-wise the program aims to cover selected historical, cultural and socio-economic contexts, in which the human rights challenges arouse. Apart from WW2 and the Holocaust, the experience of the socialist regime, and the phenomenon of the Solidarity Movement, as well as the system transformation are the key historical factors which in one way or the other shaped the contemporary Polish society.

Taking into consideration the specific focus on diversity and interconnected challenges, for instance in form of discrimination and hate speech, the program will first of all cover mechanisms generating conditions in which discrimination, xenophobia and hate speech arise, persist and grow stronger. Secondly, the program will serve as a platform for discussion on, among others, the nature of hate speech and the limits of freedom of speech. Among other questions, the current gravity of ‘refugee crisis’, as well as the Polish constitutional and rule of law crisis will be debated.

Furthermore, the program will scrutinize current cases of discrimination and marginalization of selected groups which exemplify the challenges resulting from a growing diversity, as well as cases explaining innovative strategies and good practices of counteracting the existing problems, developed by various actors of the Polish system of human rights protection. More specifically, on-line and off-line (and a mixture of both dimensions) hate speech will be in the spotlight both in terms of being a social problem and an issue against which various sectors of the civic society have generated innovative responses.

Output Phase:

On the basis of knowledge and experiences gathered in the input phase, the fellows will take part in a training of skills essential for activists/leaders, such as creative and public communication through social media. The participants will learn how to better visualize information which they want to get across and how to gain social support for their social campaigns. Acknowledging the potential of modern technologies in the work towards social change, the program provides its participants with the opportunity to learn how to involve civic society into debates on human rights violations with a particular focus on hate speech, as well as how to conceptualize and develop specific tools e.g. memes in mobilizing responses to human rights violations. Thanks to sharing and transforming initial visual ideas, they will gather observations on what strategies prove effective. This educational process will be conducted under supervision of experienced trainers.

As working directly with local communities might have a considerable potential for igniting sparks of social change, fellows will engage in direct actions and community work within one of selected NGOs. Activities will be supervised by experts from those organizations and will be done with the people involved and directly affected by specific cases of discrimination. Cooperation with those organizations will be preceded by the training with Tara Dickman, HIA Senior Fellow and expert on community organizing, on different pathways to social activism: community service, awareness raising and community organizing. With such hindsight, fellows will be able to run their campaigns in a more conscious way, thus supporting communities in a structured way. We believe that this grass-roots experience and dialogue with communities will allow fellows to come up with thoughtful strategies for addressing human rights issues connected to ‘refugee crisis’, xenophobia, discrimination, and the rise of extremist movements via social campaigns. In order to ensure this, fellows will cooperate with the following organizations:

- Aim High consists of young people willing to change something in their surroundings. The Mission of Aim High is to promote young people, increase their self-confidence and help them reach for their dreams and take their own actions aimed to help other young people. The organization focuses mostly on youth coming from disadvantaged environments. They work mostly with active methods – workshops and trainings. Aim High uses juggling and other circus activities as a metaphor of reaching the goal step by step. They try to show to young people that even things that seem to be impossible at first, can be achieved with a little faith, effort and persistence.

- Equality Volunteering is a non-profit organization which organizes Warsaw's pride parade and equality festival, and which advocates for LGBTQI rights. The organizers of the parade promote social equality in general, and draw attention to the problems faced by the LGBTQI community in Poland.

- Kuchnia Konfliktu (Conflict Kitchen) is a foundation and a social enterprise which raises awareness on migration by employing refugees and migrants and by serving food from their regions. The idea of the enterprise was conceived as the Action Project of three HIA Senior Fellows: Jarmila Rybicka, Paulina Milewska and Maciej Kuziemsli. Kuchnia Konfliktu has been recognized with numerous awards, including Social Start-Up 2016 by Ashoka Poland or National Geographic Traveler Award 2017.

- MamyGłos (We Have Voice) is a grass-roots initiative which empowers teenage girls to stand up for themselves and against sexism. Established in 2016, the initiative is successfully run by 6 young women (18-27), including two Senior Fellows: Sylwia Wodzińska and Michalina Ferencz, and is surrounded by 20 teenage activists. Over the year, they organized workshops in self-defense, critical thinking, activism and law literacy to 400+ teenagers, offered psychological consultations, published a coloring book, delivered free sanitary pads to girls from underprivileged backgrounds, produced numerous videos and stickers and spoke at demonstrations. The initiative has been awarded with prestigious FRIDA 2017-2020 grant as the first and only ones in Poland.
• Jewish Community of Warsaw is one of seven organizations forming the Association of Jewish Communities in Poland. The Warsaw Jewish Community continues the tradition of the pre-war Jewish Communities, therefore fulfilling the mission of self-government. Presently the Community has about 600 members and their number is constantly growing.

• The Polish Migration Forum Foundation (PFM) was created in 2007 to promote the rights of migrants in Poland. PFM supports and develops initiatives that lead to dialogue between people representing various cultures, mainly in Poland. It also works with Polish migrants abroad, and support families affected in some way by migration.

Additionally, throughout the whole program, fellows will have the opportunity to enhance their (creative) writing and journalistic skills by sharing their reflections and impressions with the wider public on the program's blog http://hiapoland2017.blogspot.com. Also, the fellows will have the chance to try out different discussion techniques/methods while preparing and facilitating daily Fellows’ Discussions.
This day serves as an introduction of all participants into the program: fellows who arrived the day before will have an opportunity to adapt to the new environment in Warsaw, to reenergize after the travel and to meet each other informally. In the morning, fellows will have a chance to get to know each other officially in a program setting. The next session will take a form of a short introduction to the program by the HIA staff. Additionally, the staff will provide some practical information about the stay in Warsaw (transportation, health, safety, etc.). The last program element is a guided walking tour through Warsaw in order to discover how Warsaw's and Polish histories are interconnected and to explore the links between the past and present.

The second day is devoted to exploring the program in a more detailed way, that is, to clarifying the expectations and agreeing upon the ‘rules of the game’. It consists of 2 sessions. We will begin by sharing personal stories through meaningful objects. Then, we will discuss our expectations towards the program and agree upon rules/obligations in a form of contract. The last program element is the second part of the guided walk tour through Warsaw, this time in the Praga district. How did ethnic/religious diversity in Poland looked in the past? And how does it look now?

The day starts with a debriefing session following the guided walking tour through Warsaw’s streets. Then, content-wise the day is dedicated to exploring some of the current social challenges at national and international level that affect Polish and European societies. The case of Greece will be a point of reference for us during two subsequent sessions not limited only to the questions of migration. What are the most important lessons both Europe and Poland could draw from the illiberal wave? At national perspective of Poland, we will specifically look into the issues sparkling public debate including women’s rights. This will give fellows an overview of how Polish society approaches developments in human rights protection.

This day is devoted to identity and tackles it from various angles. Have you ever stopped for a second to rethink whether, and if yes, how prejudices and stereotypes shape your attitude towards others? It is important to realize how privilege (or, in fact, various privileges) influence how we understand our place in world and how they both are connected to discrimination and hate speech. We will reflect on the perspective from which we view the world and where we stand in the social structure. We believe that acknowledging how we ourselves are involved in existing power structures will enable us to become more sensitive, mindful and efficient activists. This will give us a starting point for discussing Polish national identity in reference to “the Other”.

Hate speech will constitute the leading subject of this day. What is hate speech, actually? Is it words only? And why would it matter what is being written in the cultures celebrating free speech? We will look into the practical dimension of how to define, monitor and counteract it online. Meeting inspiring social activists will serve fellows their daily portion of food for thought and inspiration for the output phase.

The following two days, you will have an opportunity to take part in the training on how to raise awareness on human and minority rights. Specifically, we will dive into community organizing techniques with a particular emphasis on social campaigns and other kinds of social action. We will be introduced to Saul Alinsky’s community organizing model through the analysis of a successful civil rights campaign in France.

Second part of the training will be dedicated to the storytelling method of ‘owning your story’. Have you ever been moved by someone’s story of how they began their activist path? This workshop will equip you in tools to be more articulate when someone asks you why you want to bring a change.

The overall goal of this day is to get to know how to develop and implement social or advocacy campaigns on social media. You will be asked to reach out and research on the problems and needs of selected groups facing discrimination within the Polish society and, subsequently, to develop innovative strategies for counteracting these human rights infringements. We will gain basics of how to build good press relations, from framing a message to making it attractive to journalists.

Day Off

16.00 | optional Warsaw Pride – “Equality Parade 2017”

Sunday, June 4, 2017

Fellows will have a chance to deepen the historical knowledge on the WW2 and the Holocaust carried out by Nazi Germany also on the Polish territory. The historical realms of those times will be discussed with the help of a documentary film on the Warsaw Ghetto. A film screening and site visit to Treblinka will lead to discussions on the relevance and legacy of the Holocaust as well as on linkages with other genocides. Most importantly, we will also think about possible actions to prevent genocides. Last but not least, the day gives an opportunity to commemorate the victims as well as space for personal reflection on this chapter of history and its relevance today.

This day will be a journey through 1000 years of the history of Polish Jews – from the Middle Ages until today. Fellows will find answers to questions such as: how did Jews come to Poland? How did Poland become the center of the Jewish Diaspora and the home of the largest Jewish community in the world? How did it cease to be one, and how is Jewish life being revived? In contrast to Western Europe, after the WW2 Poland turned from a very diverse country into a more homogenous one due to the war, the Holocaust and the communist policy to eradicate any form of social difference. As diversity was a challenge even before the WW2 (the Second Polish Republic was a state struggling with consequences of diversity), communist propaganda managed to brain-wash many Poles that the newly ‘introduced’ homogeneity was not only good, but also one of the successes in this part of the world. Having gone through over 45 years of communist/socialist regime, with practically non-existent freedom of speech, Polish society faces several challenges connected to growing diversity.

This day is devoted to two themes. On the one hand, it provides fellows with the opportunity to reflect on their fellowship experience so far. On the other hand, it focuses on how to challenge prejudices & stereotypes. In this part, we will learn about HIA Poland’s contribution to pre-empting prejudices and the promotion of human rights ideals/culture through its activities/initiatives. Moreover, we will speak about how to tackle prejudices from the perspective of social psychology. Last but not least, we will discuss the legacy of the Solidarity Movement, its leaders, values and methods of resistance. We will focus especially on the women’s place in the movement. Why was this movement so successful and influential, not only for Poland but also for other parts of Europe? What are the universal lessons learned which are relevant nowadays, and what are the actions that could be critiqued especially from today’s perspective? Which good practices could be inspirational for other countries or which could be seen as troublesome (and why)?

The aim of the day is to explore the process of forging the new social order and its consequences on two case studies: LGBTQI and people with disabilities. These will be presented by representatives of NGOs and by social activists, who will share their approaches towards and experiences with human rights violations (especially hate speech) and good practices in responding to them. During the day, we will also have a look into how Polish identity and religion are intertwined. In the past, the Church often served as a sort of real and symbolic asylum/shelter for the dissidents. During Socialism people who disagreed with the uniform Communist Party-line organized the Solidarity movement, while the Church tried to galvanize the society together against the common enemy – the ruling regime. As much as it enabled to exercise some sort of freedom (personal, artistic and the like) and mobilizing resistance, it looked for ways of strengthening ‘Polishness’ and being together on particular terms. After 1989, the situation has deeply changed and the Roman Catholic Church needs to ‘compete’ on the free ‘market’ of diverse ideas.

With reference to the previous days, the fellows will continue exploring the nuances of the Polish democracy and civic society especially by focusing on challenges with the presence of migrants. After over 44 years of living in a communist/socialist “freezer” with a very limited freedom of speech, Polish society is facing various difficulties that have been caused by a growing diversity. Opening borders after 1989 made Poles to question the prevalent notion of country’s homogeneity due to several factors such as: the influx of migrants into the country; (re)discovering diversity within the country exemplified by Poland-based national and ethnic minorities; the possibility to freely travel and cross borders again. The fellows will explore what are the key challenges with integration and inclusion of newcomers as well as will learn some good practices developed by selected NGOs. We will discuss also the specific cases of xenophobia: islamophobia, racism and anti-Ukrainian racism in Poland.

Fellows will engage in some direct actions and community work in cooperation with one of the following NGOs: Aim High Initiative, Conflict Kitchen, Jewish Community of Warsaw, Equality Volunteering, Mamy Głos, and Polish Migration Forum. We will take part in activities close to the interests of the communities involved. With hindsight of last two weeks fellows will be able to get more from their activities. We believe that this grass-roots experience and discussions with communities will allow fellows to come up with thoughtful strategies for addressing refugee crisis, xenophobia, discrimination, sexism, rise of the extreme via means of social campaigns. Campaigns run in cooperation with experts from the field and communities might have a considerable potential for igniting sparks of social change, and equip fellows with new attitudes.

1.2. Code of Conduct for Program Participants

Humanity in Action is committed to providing an environment that is respectful to all those involved in its programming. Fellows are ambassadors of Humanity in Action and should demonstrate appropriate conduct in the programs and in public. This Code of Conduct describes Humanity in Action’s expectations for Fellows’ behavior throughout their time in the programs.

Respect for Staff and Peers

Humanity in Action expects Fellows to approach each other and Humanity in Action staff with respect. The themes presented during Humanity in Action programs are challenging and often highly sensitive. Fellows must approach discussions with maturity, honesty and an openness to explore their own perspectives and those of others. Humanity in Action expects Fellows to engage in these highly sensitive discussions in ways that are constructive for the entire group. Fellows should approach Humanity in Action staff in respectful manner and acknowledge their role in leading and facilitating the program, as well as setting particular expectations towards fellows. Fellows are expected to take jointly with Humanity in Action staff responsibility for some of the logistical arrangements of the program including helping in preparing the rooms for program activities, keeping the tidiness, preparing amenities for coffee and tea breaks etc.

Respect for Speakers

Humanity in Action expects Fellows to approach speakers with respect and with a desire to learn – even from speakers with whom they strongly disagree. Humanity in Action does not assume that Fellows will agree with the viewpoints presented by all speakers. In these cases, Humanity in Action encourages Fellows to vocalize their disagreements but to do so in a respectful manner.

Fellows may attend sessions during the programs that are confidential, off-the-record or sensitive in subject matter. Humanity in Action expects Fellows to follow the requests of speakers and the program staff regarding confidentiality, attribution and social media.

Respect for Host Families and Other Accommodations

Humanity in Action expects Fellows to approach their places of accommodations – whether hotels, hostels, homestays or other locations – with respect and to comply with any associated rules. Non-Fellows cannot stay overnight in any Humanity in Action-sponsored accommodations without pre-approval from program staff. If placed in homestays, Fellows should be sensitive to their hosts’ expectations and show an openness and eagerness to get to know the person or family.

Cultural Sensitivity and Adaptability

Fellows must be sensitive to cultural differences and recognize that some of the behaviors that they may find uncomfortable pertain to a different cultural context. Although cultural misunderstandings may occur – during and outside the program – Fellows should always show respect and a willingness to understand these cultural differences.
Timeliness
Fellows are expected to attend each scheduled session at the designated time. Should a Fellow need to be late, the Fellow should contact program staff in advance. Program staff may excuse absences on a case-by-case basis. Persistent lateness or absences will not be tolerated and could result in dismissal from the program.

National Law
All Fellows are subject to the laws governing the countries where their programs take place and are susceptible to the associated penalties should those laws be broken.

Alcohol and Drug Usage
Fellows must follow the laws governing alcohol and drug usage in the country of their program. Fellows found breaking a host country’s laws may face local legal consequences and/or dismissal from the program. Humanity in Action strongly discourages the use of drugs and irresponsible and excessive alcohol consumption during the program. Fellows are ambassadors of Humanity in Action and should demonstrate appropriate behavior.

Harassment
Humanity in Action is committed to providing an environment where people can interact comfortably and free from any form of harassment, sexual or otherwise. Such offensive behavior may relate to race, gender, sexual orientation, religion, national origin, disability, or other protected statuses. Humanity in Action prohibits offensive behavior and remarks in the program involving Humanity in Action Fellows, staff, interns, visitors, speakers and/or third parties. Reported cases of harassment will be promptly investigated by Humanity in Action. Fellows who are found to have engaged in acts of harassment are subject to penalty including dismissal from the program and legal action.

Relationships
Humanity in Action prohibits Fellows from engaging in romantic or intimate relationships, suggestive or otherwise, with program staff (directors, coordinators and interns) during the program.

Adjudication
Fellows are encouraged to report immediately any issue or concern to program staff or Humanity in Action staff. Humanity in Action will investigate each reported case and will take appropriate actions.

Fellows who fail to comply with Humanity in Action’s Code of Conduct will be subject to penalties that will be determined on a case-by-case basis by the program staff and Humanity in Action staff including the Executive Director. Penalties can include immediate dismissal from the program. Program staff will adjudicate minor behavioral issues on a case-by-case basis. For exceptional violations of the Code of Conduct, the Executive Director will immediately be called upon to intervene, which could lead to a Fellow’s immediate dismissal from the program.

1.4. Fellows’ Discussions, Blog and Social Media Posts

All HIA programs are built upon an active involvement of fellows so that the fellowship experience can be even more enriching. Every fellow is expected to lead a Fellows’ Discussion and/or write a blog post. A sign-up list for these assignments will be handed to you separately.

Fellows’ Discussions

Almost each day of the input phase, usually between 3 p.m. and 6 p.m., there will be time for the Fellows’ Discussion. It is a moment for fellows to discuss important issues of the given day and/or to continue the discussions started during previous sessions. Fellows’ Discussions are facilitated by fellows (one or two). The role of the Fellows’ Discussion facilitators is to prepare and plan the format of the discussion and to lead the meeting. One day before the discussion, the facilitator or facilitators need to consult their ideas with the HIA staff. This will give you an opportunity to receive feedback on the planned discussion format and subsequently, to improve the details.

Tips for the facilitators of the Fellows’ Discussions:

1. Prepare yourself well for the Fellows’ Discussion. It is very important to have a specific plan and prepared intros/guidelines for the fellows. Therefore, prepare a concise and clear intro to inform other fellows how the meeting will look like.
2. Prepare the specific subject of the meeting and specific questions to begin the discussion and to move it on if suddenly it stops.
3. Include different methods/forms of activities such as: work in small groups, debates (for example Oxford-style debate, yes/no debate), brainstorming, discussion on the forum (with flipchart), role play, mind map, visualization (poster, comics, collage, photos), drama, film, simulation games. Try to combine a few different forms during a Fellows’ Discussion.
4. Consider a few possible scenarios of the meeting as the discussion can go into different directions.
5. Remember that fellows are likely to be a bit weary after the whole day of sessions. This is why you are encouraged to include some entertainment at the beginning of the session such as energizers or some physical activity. Include it in your agenda.
6. Take care of the atmosphere of the meeting. Let everyone feel safe, included and active.
7. Before you ask HIA staff for feedback, please prepare the written agenda of the meeting according to these guidelines:
   - What is the purpose of the meeting?
   - What kind of methods would you like to use?
   - What results would you like to achieve?
Blog Posts

Each fellowship program has its own blog website. This year’s blog you can find here: www.hiapoland2017.blogspot.com. We aim to make the blog an open venue for your opinions and sharing your experience gained during the program. Your role is to share the insights and different perspectives (of speakers, other fellows, and yours) on issues raised during the given period of the program.

Remember that your audience is not only the HIA network, but also the general public. We highly advise you to follow the “so what?” rule 😊 which says that a good journalist should always make sure that the article brings an added value to the readers. In this context, Barbara Frum, a Canadian journalist, once said ‘tell me something new about something I care about’.

The text should consist of interesting quotes, observations and raised questions. It should not be longer than 1 page in WORD format single spacing (500-800 words). A complete blog post consists of:
- a catchy title,
- an appealing lead,
- an interesting content,
- an attention-grabbing ending,
- last but not least, attractive photos,
- last but not least, short videos are highly welcome.

We strongly advise you to take a look at our previous blogs to get an idea how it could be done, though, we are encourage fresh, new ideas. Each blog post should be accompanied with 3-5 photos (in separately attached image files). The deadline for submitting each entry via email (to Przemek, Sylwia, Monika and Alicja) is 7 a.m. the day following your duty.

1.5. Output Phase in Detail

The aim of the output phase is to provide the fellows with the opportunity to enhance a wide array of skills, necessary to effectively respond to discrimination and hate speech both off- and on-line. The fellows will design and run a social campaign tackling an important issue, responding to challenges of hate speech/discrimination as well as raising awareness on human rights. As these are the key activities of any social activist, the skills and experiences will enhance fellows’ development.

Fellows’ Assignment in the Output Phase:

HIA Poland expects each group to deliver the following:

1) A concept of a social media campaign, followed by testing the ideas and implementation. All fellows will work in international teams of three. HIA Poland will be responsible for creating the teams, though the fellows will have a chance to share their thematic preferences. In order to help fellows design effective campaigns, HIA Poland will provide the program participants with training on social campaigns. The fellows will then cooperate closely with trainers. When it comes to the campaign, it should consist of a combination of both off- and on-line actions. In specific terms, HIA Poland expects from each working group at least 5 pieces of visual elements, including at least one short video. Each campaign should be presented on-line on such a platform that it would be possible to easily identify the outreach in numeric form as well as public reactions to subsequent pieces of work uploaded by the teams. Thus, we highly recommend using/starting a Facebook page (as your campaign idea, while developing it, may change substantially during its initial phase, please note that Facebook allows you to adjust the title of the page). The page should serve as a platform for testing several ideas and as the major channel through which public attention could be attracted.

Regarding the campaigns, each group is expected to achieve visibility of at least 3000 viewings/reach (in total, all posts combined) and ideally at least 200 likes/subscribers/followers by each group. Going beyond this level would be highly appreciated as we think that your messages should go far beyond your family and friends circles. HIA Poland will support your efforts in attracting public attention. Remember: we are here to help you – if you encounter any difficulties (regarding post reach, group work, etc.), please, contact Sylwia or Przemek. Try to approach this task not as a dreary assignment but rather as an opportunity to speak up about important issues. And if you decide to continue with your campaign afterwards, we’ll all be on cloud nine! More details will be shared at the later stage.

2) A presentation of results, aptly summarizing and synthesizing what you experienced, learned and achieved during the output phase in an engaging and attractive form. As tradition has it, the presentations will take place during a final celebration, for which we will guests, friends and speakers. Let’s celebrate the results of your hard work! When it comes to practical details, we highly recommend a Pecha Kucha format. Each group will have ca. 7 minutes of time, during which all group members should have the chance to present. We recommend to work on presentations and rehearse on June 20. The celebration will take place on June 20. The final presentation files (in PDF, Power Points, video or other Windows system-compatible file formats) should be delivered by 10 AM on June 20. More details will be shared at the later stage.

3) A report summarizing the process of developing and implementing social campaigns and its major parts (graphic and films). Firstly, the report should briefly present a particular problem (characteristics of hate speech and discrimination towards a chosen group) and discuss the existing research and observations of representatives of a given group. Secondly, present some of your visual work and explain your key campaign ideas. Try to present some other campaigns that inspired your thinking. If possible, include some innovative strategies of counteracting hate speech in various countries and settings together with own thoughts and comments on what kind of reactions they could evoke on the part of the social media users. Thirdly, share your experiences of the implementation phase. Which of your assumptions turned out to be right? What were the reactions to your social media content? What feedback did you get from the training team? Did you modify your work? If yes, how? Fourthly, what were the lessons learned and what kind of advice could you give your peers engaged in social campaigning? As a result, such a report should give the readers some insight into what innovations your group has developed and what were the key turning points in this week-long process of testing various visual ideas. Last but not least, present how your campaign ideas could be transformed into sustainable long-term activities, and how other people could join in or assume responsibility to develop the initiatives further.

As for the form of this report, it could consist of not only a text, but also include visuals (e.g. pictures of the group work or visual content of your FB page). As far as the text is concerned, it doesn’t have to be very long but definitely, should not be shorter than 3 pages (single spacing, WORD format) and should be delivered in three installments:

1) theoretical framework by June 14;
2) campaign idea(s), impact indicators and implementation plan by June 18;
3) final remarks – what proved successful and what could be improved by 10 AM on June 20.

Please make sure you do not forget about an interesting/catchy title, pictures, visuals, footnotes and bibliography. After the program HIA Poland staff will give you feedback on the first drafts of those texts and all the authors will be asked to modify their pieces accordingly. Only then the texts will be considered final/public versions. By ‘public’ we mean that they will be published in an activist toolkit so please, try to make it useful for the generations of fellows to come – own your failures, celebrate your successes, mention what did work and what could work better.

4) A blog entry, accompanied with 3-5 photos (as separately attached files) and delivered by 10 AM on June 20. The aim of the entry is to present the group work during the output phase from personal/activist perspective. In specific terms, the entry should consist of your personal impressions/reflections upon your experiences, interesting quotes of persons you have encountered and own observations regarding the whole output phase. What were the challenges you met? How did you manage to overcome the difficulties? How did you come up with the major idea? The text should not be longer that 1 page in WORD format single spacing. A complete blog entry consists of:
- a catchy title,
- an appealing lead,
- interesting content,
- an attention-grabbing ending,
- last but not least, attractive photos and visuals.

We strongly advise you to take a look on our previous blogs to gain an idea how it could be done. Yet, we hope for fresh ideas as well.
Topics of campaigns:

Your campaigns should focus on groups that are frequently an object of hate speech and discrimination in contemporary Polish society, and who, in many cases, since WW2 were treated as scapegoats. Therefore, we suggest the following themes (in random order):

1) Jews,
2) LGBTQI+ persons,
3) Refugees/Migrants,
4) Women,
5) Other underprivileged communities.

Please, be aware that we expect you to look for specific issues/aspects within this larger theme. Also, you are most welcome to continue your work on the campaign after the fellowship, take it home or to other countries and make it big and more impactful.

Output Phase Expenses

In order to support you in your quest for creating an interesting social campaign, we will give each group the budget of 150 PLN. It is your decision how you prefer to use it (e.g. necessary props, Facebook ads). However, we advise to SHARE your plan with HIA staff before making any spending simply because your spending is connected to our financial reporting and must be aligned with our financial reporting constraints. Remember: you must document your spending with invoices issued in line with the guidelines to be given by HIA staff. Without documentation (invoices), no reimbursement will be possible 🙄
1.6. Action Projects

We hope that the HIA Poland’s Fellowship will provide you with the necessary knowledge of the key problems in Polish society within the broader framework of human and minority rights and will inspire your ideas for Action Projects. Hate speech and discrimination are human rights problems present in any contemporary society and thus, we encourage you to draw upon this experience in two alternative ways. Firstly, in case of the guest-fellows we would like you to explore these problems in your society/local community and act against human rights infringement using skills gained/developed in the fellowship. Secondly, when it comes to Polish fellows, we would like you to invite you to continue the campaigns and develop/implement their 2.0 version.

In general, implementation of Action Projects constitutes a vital part of what Humanity in Action programs are about – namely, taking action in the field of human and minority rights. More specifically, this action will take the form of your outreach project, which should be implemented within a year after the end of the program.

A description of your Action Project will be posted on the HIA website. We use the archive of hundreds of Action Projects—implemented by American and European Fellows, in their countries and abroad—as a resource for future HIA Fellows and the broader public, so that both audiences can enhance their social action through our collective resources. All Action Projects implemented by fellows should be publicly identified with HIA. Make sure that proper documentation is made (e.g. press releases, photos, short films etc.).

Furthermore, if possible, HIA Staff and Senior Fellows would like to participate in the events related to the Action Project (e.g. if it is a conference, workshop, lecture), so please keep us updated about such events. Ideally, please contact HIA already at the stage of planning.

Why does HIA oblige its Fellows to complete an Action Project?

There are three goals that HIA seeks to accomplish through the creation and completion of an Action Project:

- Individual Impact—HIA believes that the skills and self-knowledge you gain through conceiving and executing a successful Action Project are an essential part of your HIA education—as well as your development as a leader and innovator in the field of human rights, or in any discipline you choose to pursue. It is our hope that the Action Project will help move your HIA experience from one of educational inquiry to action.

  Moreover, the Action Project will provide you with personal experience in using the HIA network—its global network of experts in academia, business, government, journalism, media, law, and civil society—to set a standard and approach for collaboration as you build on your personal and professional goals in the years ahead.

- Public Impact—It is HIA’s mission to prepare young leaders to make a public impact in the field of human and minority rights. The Action Project is a small, yet meaningful demonstration of our Fellows’ capacity to engage in this work. Thus, Action Projects should be designed to impact on public debate in your (local) community or to address specific social or civic barriers that you choose to focus on through your initiative.

- Institutional Impact—Action Projects are a means of connecting you with Board Members, Senior Fellows, and experts, and of expanding the intellectual and social capital of the HIA network. Our hope is that the Core Fellowship and the Action Project are merely the beginning of a sustained partnership with HIA. Of equal importance, Action Projects are also a key way for HIA to demonstrate the impact and significance of its programs to the broader public and to financial supporters. Therefore, it is HIA’s goal to learn how we can be supportive of the personal and professional goals of Fellows in our network.

To make the whole process easier for you we recommend doing the following steps:

1) PROBLEM IDENTIFICATION: try to find a problem in the field of human and minority rights that is particularly important for your local community e.g. university, neighborhood, student association, or your group of peers. Please reflect on why you consider the problem to be important.

2) SEARCH FOR SOLUTIONS: think of possible solutions to the problem, and select only the ones which are possible to apply from your side. Note that it does not have to be anything big, e.g. you can address lack of information on a specific topic through a small information campaign, a panel discussion, an article, or a local meeting of people who usually do not talk to each other.

3) TAKE INTO CONSIDERATION YOUR LIMITS: please adjust your ideas to your possibilities, remember that your activities should be effective and should have a measurable impact, but they should not demand too much time and/or money. In most cases, low-budget, local activities are the most feasible ones.

4) BE CLEAR ABOUT OUR EXPECTATIONS: HIA does NOT want you to prepare an Action Project DURING the program. It is your task and your responsibility AFTER the program. During the program we would like you to:
   - develop the initial idea and discuss it with HIA (staff fellows) during the designated program sessions,
   - be more clear about your ways of implementation: make a list of the necessary actions, which may include a timetable, recruiting a project team, possible networking within HIA Fellows, dividing tasks, preparing a preliminary budget, identifying potential sources of funding, etc.,
- ask questions on your prospective Action Project to make sure you understand the HIA expectations.

Reporting about Action Projects

Due to internal division of tasks between the HIA offices there is a principle that Polish and Ukrainian Fellows report to HIA Poland, American Fellows report to the HIA USA, German Fellows and Greek Fellows report to the HIA Germany, so please keep in mind that the requirements below concern Polish and Ukrainian Fellows.

Key dates
- May 31 and June 16, 2017: two Fellowship sessions which will focus on explaining the HIA expectations, exchanging of your initial ideas and developing them. Be prepared to give short presentations on what you are planning to do 😊
- date to be announced: a 100-word summary of your Action Project,
- Fall 2017 (specific date to be announced): completed final Action Project form,
- Fall-Winter 2017: consultations with respective HIA offices, Senior Fellows & friends,
- July 2018: Final reports about Action Project completion.

In case you need more time to implement your Action Project, you’ll need to contact the Program Director for the approval before the deadline, preferably around February/March 2018.

What resources are available for your Action Project?

There is significant intellectual and administrative capital within the HIA network that we encourage you to draw upon. It is vital for HIA to support you in using the following resources to your advantage.

- Senior Fellows—There is a broad range of professional and academic expertise within the community of Senior Fellows. We encourage you to network with Senior Fellows who have designed successful Action Projects in prior years, as well as with those Senior Fellows who have professional experience that will enhance your project. The national Senior Fellows associations in Europe and the United States will be an immediate source of support for you.

- National Directors—The Directors of your home country are a great resource for learning about past successful Action Projects, as well as national resources (experienced Senior Fellows, experts, partner organizations) and external funding sources that might be available for your initiative.

- HIA community— HIA staff in the United States and Board Members. They might help you to connect with the Senior Fellows, experts, or partner organizations from the global network. They might also support your application for outside funding to conduct an action project.

1.7. Post-Program Requirements

Apart from the obligation to implement your Action Project, HIA expects you to help the organization to evaluate the program by:

1. Contributing to the project evaluation (sharing your observations in constructive manner, completing the evaluation survey etc.),
2. Writing a letter to HIA Board Chairs in which you give an impression what was your program experience like. In the letter you could praise the positive aspects and give critical insight on what should be changed on the Fellowship and its components. It is crucial for us to receive honest feedback from you in order for HIA to progress. More information will be given during the Fellowship. Deadline for Letters to the HIA Chairs is July 31, 2017.

1.8. Senior Fellows’ Network

All the HIA Senior Fellows are strongly encouraged to stay in touch with any Senior Fellow Network and take action! Please remember that you can cooperate with any of the existing national Senior Networks (for example, if you happen to live in one of these countries for some period of time). As for becoming a member for practical reasons, Poles and Ukrainians are advised to become members of the Polish Senior Network, Germans of the German Senior Network, Greeks of the Greek Senior Network and Americans of the American Senior Network. You become a Senior Fellow after completing your Action Project.

1.9. Internships

There is a wide variety of very interesting internships for HIA Senior Fellows, such as: The Pat Cox HIA Fellowship Program in the European Parliament in Brussels, Congressional HIA Fellowship Program and others. Please note, however, that only fellows who have participated successfully in the HIA core program and who met all the requirements are eligible to apply for internships. In order to maintain a high quality of internships, we try to ensure that the best candidates are chosen. Therefore, the recruitment process is highly competitive. HIA national staff is always asked for feedback and recommendations about fellow’s overall performance during the program, the implementation of the Action Project as well as the involvement and the engagement in the HIA network.

Winston Churchill once said that attitude is a little thing that makes a big difference. Having witnessed systemic changes in Poland, Monika became fascinated by politics and studied international relations with a focus on German studies and European integration. As her interests were broad, she graduated with two master's diplomas from the Warsaw University and Warsaw School of Economics/Sciences Politiques Paris. Later on, Monika took part in international exchange programs, first at Free University Berlin and then at Humboldt University Berlin combined with working at one of the parliamentarian offices in the German Bundestag. Subsequently, she wanted to find ways of putting the gained knowledge into practice, she started working at a think-tank – the Center for International Relations, and after that, she worked at the International Organization for Migration, where she was a project coordinator and a researcher on migration policy issues. Since 2005 Monika has been involved in developing Humanity in Action Fellowship in Poland and subsequently established Humanity in Action Poland. Since then, she has been responsible for leading its educational programs and serves as its President and Director. Over the years, while leading Humanity in Action Poland, she developed special interest in the field of linking history and human rights education, and thanks to practice and dialogue with other experts from Poland and Europe, she built substantial expertise in designing teaching methods and practical curricula. In her very limited spare time, she enjoys reading, diving and snowboarding. Monika is a passionate dancer.

3.2. Eating Out

The fellowship is partially financed out of public grants, which is why in terms of ‘per diems’, HIA Poland is particularly obliged to obey the existing Polish regulations. According to the relevant Ordinance of Minister of Labor and Social Policy, a ‘per diem’ in the Polish case is maximum 30 PLN, out of which 7,5 PLN should cover the cost of breakfast and 7,5 PLN of dinner and 15 PLN cost of lunch. In line with this law, HIA Poland will organize and cover the cost of lunches on program days when the group spends the whole day together. Moreover, each participant will receive a food stipend, which is meant as a financial support to cover other meals during the whole duration of the program. The per diem (after deducting the cost of meals provided by HIA Poland) will be given to all participants in cash in 2 installments: on 27.05.2017 and on 11.06.2017. In case of questions and feedback please turn to Alicja.

3.7. Taxi

Most cabs have about a 6-8 PLN initial charge. The average rate in Warsaw at the moment is circa 2,5 PLN/km; however several companies offer cheaper rates. Check the price sticker on the window, and be cautious about cabs without any identification. Rates go up by half after 10:00 pm and on weekends and during official holidays. Your best bet is to call for a cab to pick you up. Operators rarely speak English, so learn how to say your address and phone number in Polish. You can use Uber as well. Here are some generally reliable and yet cheapest companies:

Day tariff:
EKO Taxi, phone: +48 22 644 22 22 (8 PLN + 1,40 PLN/km- probably the cheapest in the town)
Grosik Taxi, phone: +48 22 646 46 46 (8PLN + 1,80 PLN/km)

4. Money Matters
4.1. Reimbursement

Make sure you will be reimbursed before spending money (or otherwise, you will have to bear the cost yourself). If anything is unclear please always consult the HIA Poland Director. Costs can only be reimbursed by the HIA, if:

→ they were consulted with the HIA Poland Director beforehand and it is clear that these costs were unavoidable, related to the program, and were the most cost-effective options where used,
→ the original receipts (bills), tickets or boarding passes (in cases of flight tickets) are handed in to HIA Poland (copies are not acceptable). They cannot be crumpled or dirty,
→ they were connected with the program, for example travel costs,
→ they were connected with your research period, e.g. transportation costs, computer time at internet cafes, fees or temporary membership of libraries, etc.,
→ the items/services listed on receipts (bills) were only those related to HIA reimbursement. Please do not make any notes on the receipts (bills)/tickets because those will not be accepted by us. You can write an explanatory note which expense was for what but on a separate sheet of paper (name, date, amount, reason for payment),
→ all the invoices/tickets/bills/boarding passes are handed in or sent via mail to HIA Poland within about a month after each component of the program is over.
